08-03-2011 #1 login to disable this ad (I'm reasking this question) Not enough CANALS of ASIO release are available. At least Channel 2 is needed? ^^ What pops up when I try 2 open studio fl. I use M-Audio Fast Track Pro. I checked and the window says that I have the latest drivers, nd it also says that the device is connected and works properly the dashboard of computer devices. Whenever I try 2 to install FTP as audio input/output, it pops up w/error when creating an AISO driver. When I pull up the M-Audio Fast Track Pro properties panel, it says its not connected nd I can't install or do anything to it (you know, the choice of box nd options r gray instead of black). Also, I think the lights should 2 light up on the device when I insert audio cables from my keyboard into the microphone/tool socket. everything else is connected in a fl studio, but I can't record anything of my motive es8 BC this! im just noob so idk where 2 start so HELP 08-03-2011 #2 Read the manual and troubleshooting etc. I got the same message with the Focusrite Saffire 6 USB interface I believe, but it always let me record everything anyway. 08-03-2011 #3 Try switching back to the normal sound source in the sound settings, then close the fl studio, you may have to turn off the ftp to make the warning boxes stop appearing. Turn the ftp then back and reopen the fl studio. Then go to the audio settings and try to choose FTP. That's how I solve a problem when it happens to me. The reason seems to be when other devices have been launched through ftp. Close all other audio devices before turning on the fast tactics. FL Fanatic (en) FL10 Discount 08-03-2011 #4 I sometimes get this when running Pro Tools and FL at the same time, but usually after I close Pro Tools it will work. If it doesn't work, I'll restart the computer. acenoisebeats.com twitter.com/acenoisebeats 06-20-2013 #5 I had the same problem and tried to find the answer, and found no interface problem, no configuration on FL Just delete the M-audio software M-audio fast track C600) to restart the computer and install the driver again (I used CD software) I hope that I helped discuss how to use FL Studio Return on the FL Studio Users Forum (Looptalk) You can only see a part of the topic as you have not logged into the forums pinkwarrior235 2017 4:20 pm Hello, When I try to open my FL Studio software, it brings up an error message that says: Not enough ASIO weekend channels. We need at least two channels. What does that mean? It worked just to find yesterday, and if I check my sound card (I have roland octacapture) in winamp, the sound plays just fine. Do I need to change something in FL or fix it? Its strange as he just started giving me this When it worked great yesterday, the day before, etc. Back to fl Studio users forum (Looptalk) you may run into the next error message when running FL FL or a change to the selected audio Device.This error message usually indicates that the selected ASIO driver is currently unavailable or is being used by another app. You have to confirm the following:1. Equipment associated with the selected ASIO driver is properly connected and recognized by Windows.2. You get an exit from the device and the selected driver outside FL Studio.3. No other app uses the selected ASIO driver. If necessary, it's a good idea to restart your computer and check if the error message is saved. If the bug persists, you may need to remove and reinstall the last ASIO driver for your equipment. I just brought my computer home and hooked everything up. I have the Mbox 3 connected to my computer and my monitors are connected to the interface with 1/4 inch cables. My audio device, which I chose, is the Avid Mbox Mini ASIO, but it says disabled? Hey, everyone, every time I open a FL studio I get insufficient asio weekend channels available at least 2 required box. I watched it and it says there is something running in the background but nothing works. He just started doing it randomly, please help!
